

Bug Light Aficionados Get Close-up Look

(L-r:) Alex Stohn and Linc Dow.

Capt. John out of Plymouth sails group a ring around Bug Light in Kingston Bay.

On Sunday, June 8, at 5 pm, a seafaring group of up to 200 Bug Light supporters boarded Capt. John's Cape Cod Princess for a sunset cruise to Bug Light and beyond.

The evening was glorious, the participants were joyous, and Bug Light coffers were swelling.

The adventure was organized by the directors of "Project Bug Light" headed by president Bob McCluskey. Jeff Stewart of Plymouth was on scene director.

Duxbury Clipper, Wednesday, June 25, 1997

Bug Light, as seen through a clutch of supporters.

The vessel was kindly donated by Stanley Tavares, owner of the Capt. John boats.

Committee members, friends, and The Lobster Hut provided a delicious bounty of hors d'oeuvres.

Sparkling music was provided by Pete Collins and his Dixieland Band.

The purpose of the cruise was to enhance the capital expenditure fund for Bug Light.

The entire event turned out highly successful, and the only refrain heard as the happy sailors embarked was:

"Let's do it again."